

Review Milestone 3 - Deadline 27. November

Finish with Services, Booking

Overall

We worked really slowly the last weeks.

The Filter broke after merging the last couple of merges to master and we had some troubles implementing it again. But it works fine now.

However we realized, way too late, that we still had massive flaws regarding registration and authorization.

We implemented the the add Service feature. But you still aren't routed after the successful adding to your service and also you don't get an alert. You can update your service now, but still cannot delete it yet as the whole my services page isn't ready yet.

We were so slow with everything - had many troubles with the backend suddenly not working anymore in the frontend - (Annina had to delete the database file several times before it worked again and we didn't understand why).

Also more styling needs to be done.

We still have loads to do for the next two weeks. But we thought about a special feature: we want to implement the rating for a service. This should be done in the next deadlines we set:

Deadlines

This Weekend: By this weekend the registration should work fine. The Styling on Login/Profile should be done. Also you should be able to book a service.

By next Wednesday: Next weekend the whole logic of the website should function. Registration should work. Filtering should work. Booking and deleting services. Notifications should work as well. Also the biggest part regarding webpage design should be done. You should be able to delete a service/profile.

Weekend before Deadline of project: Project should be 100% finished by then.

Powerpoint presentation. In group: What did work/what didn't. What is good on page what is bad. Improvements. etc.
